

UX/UI Designer

We're looking for a UX/UI Designer to join our digital schools product team here in Melbourne! We build products and platforms that are used by students in schools every day, and we're striving to make a difference for the better. You'll be focused on helping the team to define a design system and the visuals of features for a complete rebuild project.

You'll be reporting to the Design Lead, and you'll be supported by a product team consisting of UX/UI designers, developers, product managers, and BAs. This role is best suited to a UI designer who is looking to grow and work in a close team.

What you'll actually do here

- Work closely with our other designers, as well as the rest of the product team
- Identify (and solve!) real customer problems
- Translate and concepts into user flows, wireframes, mockups, and prototypes
- Test, measure, and iterate on features
- Communicate design rationale to stakeholders

What we're looking for

- A creative, user-centered approach to basically everything
- Experience in Sketch, InVision, or other similar design/prototyping tools
- Excellent communication skills
- An enthusiastic, open-minded, and collaborative attitude
- Somebody who likes learning, because, well, that's what we do here

What it's like to work for us

In our team, we're focused entirely on the digital content that we produce for schools, allowing students to learn in more ways than ever! We're committed to producing beautiful, functional, and fun learning experiences for our users, so a love/hate relationship with Dribbble is a bonus. We approach new challenges with an open mind and no ego, and we're constantly learning from each other.

A great balance comes first, though - that's why we offer flexible hours with the option to work from home, volunteer days, and learning days.

About us

Pearson is the world's leading learning company, and we help learners of all ages to reach their education goals. We provide a blend of digital learning formats, printed texts, educator training resources, assessments, services, and online assets. Plus - we're also located in the Docklands near Southern Cross Station and some really good takeaway.

WANT IN?

If you think this would be a good fit for you, pass your resumé and portfolio along to maxine.lotherington@pearson.com.